■ INTRODUCTION

It is common for most manufacturers/shippers to export & import their goods to customers and/or suppliers and it is inevitable in the transactions the shippers will have to deal with freight forwarders, hauliers and liners or aircrafts. Unfortunately, in recent years there are numerous incidents that cargo were found damage, loss or delivered late. As a result of the said damage, loss and/or delay, the shipper will experience losses. Losses can be substantial at most instances.

■ OBJECTIVE

In light of the above, this session will give participant the insights on how to protect themselves from experiencing substantial losses due to circumstances of damage, loss and late delivery.
